

Interactive Worship Ideas for Lent
Resource List

The Work of The People – www.theworkofthepeople.com

Great visual prayers, liturgy, and teach for Lent, as well as visual benedictions for Easter.

Lent Consortium – Facebook Group (public group, request to join) brainstorming, questions, sharing ideas, gleaning inspiration and expert advice make sure to peruse the files.

TheresaECho.com – Still Waters – cross generational worship blog

Hope4CE.net – and facebook group (public group, request to join)

Flame: Creative Children’s Ministry – flamecreativekids.blogspot.com play dough mats, worship stations, crafts, story cards, printables, and more!

Messy Church – www.messychurch.org – online network for creative worship stations, crafts, printable, and more!

Illustrated Children’s Ministry - <http://www.illustratedchildrensministry.com/>

The work of pastor and artist Adam Walker Cleaveland. He sells large coloring posters for Advent and Lent, as well as illustrated different scripture passages from the Revised Common Lectionary. He also partnered with his wife (pastor and spiritual director) Sarah to create a family devotion resource for Advent – and they may be doing one for Lent.

Breaking New Bread - breakingnewbread.wordpress.com – by Rev. Melissa Florer-Bixler. “A blog about forming children to be ministers, cross-generational worship, theology of childhood, and catechesis. Also, crafts.” For "Pew Projects" that are introduced during the Word with Children then the kids work on during the sermon.

Worshiping With Children - <http://worshipingwithchildren.blogspot.com/> - Ideas for engaging all ages in worship. Follows the lectionary cycle and posts worship aids one month in advance.

Storypath- <http://storypath.upsem.edu/> - a resource from Union Presbyterian Seminary that links children’s books to lectionary readings. It can be great for inspiration for working with children, as well as visual images and stories for the whole congregation. Follows the lectionary and posts at least one month in advance.