Creative Adventures Through the Bible

Helping one another,
Supporting one another, and Caring for one another

Harriet Wilkin

This webinar is based on a resource that I started writing during the pandemic.

I wanted to write something that was Bible based that families could do at home that also provided creative elements.

I would like to share with you some creative ideas that you or your congregation can do to continue to grow in their relationship with God.

How is it with your soul?

Are you looking for creative ways to connect with God?

Are you looking for ideas to incorporate that support people with learning and developmental disabilities?

Bring with you to the webinar: either crayons, markers, or colored pencils; plain paper, and your creativity.

How is it with your soul?

Psalm 19

Showing God's love to one another.

Are you looking for creative ways to connect with God?

Are you looking for ideas to incorporate that support people with learning and developmental disabilities?

- Make it fun!
- Something that everyone can do easily.
- Accessible

When designing resource materials that are creative that parents and grandparents can use at home, consider different items that people have around the house that allows people to be creative and learn about God's love.

Nature gives us great opportunity to learn about God's creation. I wrote a Vacation Bible Study titled, "Celebrating God's Creation." It is an online Bible Study that adults and families can do over the summer.

A photograph of a city at dusk. In the foreground, a large, ornate street lamp with three glowing lanterns is the central focus. The background shows a city skyline with a prominent domed building, likely St. Mark's Basilica in Venice, silhouetted against a sunset sky. Other street lamps are visible in the distance, and the overall atmosphere is warm and serene.

Our Homes Can ...

- be a place to worship and to learn about the Bible.
- be a place to build our relationship with God.
- be a place to learn how the Bible applies to our lives today and tomorrow.

Ever taken time to climb up to look out from a cliff?
What does this picture remind you of?

Not everyone has access to the ocean or a river, but we can create places for them to connect with God through water.

Some beaches offer wheelchair ramps that allow people with disabilities the access to the ocean. Safe first.

Not everyone can climb a mountain, but we can provide ways for people to connect with God.

There are times in our lives when it feels as though we are climbing one mountain after another without a place to find rest. We keep praying for strength to move forward.

Once we do reach the top of the mountain, we need to remind ourselves to take time to look out over where we have climbed and give thanks to God for not leaving us on the journey.

God does speak to us – as God did to Moses and others on mountain tops.
At the same time, God reminded Moses and us that we are on Holy Ground.
Let us take time to worship God on that mountain of success and achievement.
